

In the hyper-communicative world we live in with advertisements and solititations bombarding us at every turn, the Do Not Call List has made the evening hours more quiet and peaceful. Even using an answering machine to screen calls resulted in interruptions and annoyances. The Federal government should rest assured that I am able to initiate contact with anyone I have done business with within the last 18 months if I choose to. Please do not water down legislation that has been effective. As a matter of fact, develop some effective ways to stop the proponderance of spam and offensive unrequested ads I get on my e-mail...
